my angel left on broken wings a certain cure for suffering but the side effects have torn my world in two a million pieces I can't fix a million questions I can't ask and I blame myself for leaving you alone when the fault was all your own

I keep holding on
even though you're gone
I still need you here
(I) just want to make this clear that you
you will always be a part you'll always be a part of me in everything I do
in every step
in every breath I breathe

my head is ready to explode in this empty flat alone in this quiet bedroom we once called our home the songs you sang made my life sing the silence here is deafening when you left this world you took my heart with you if you only knew

I keep holding on
even though you're gone
(I) just want to make this clear that you
you'll always be a part of me
