How does it feel
To know you're all alone?
How does it feel
To know your good thing's gone?

Now you're getting a taste of your own medicine
Are you man enough to take it?
So many times you told me you didn't need me around
Now I wanna see you make it
'Cause now you're by yourself
You'll see just how I felt

How does it feel
To know you're all alone?
How does it feel
To know your good thing's gone?
How does it feel?
Ooh, baby

Now you can run for me (You can run for me) like I'm running for you
You can worry over me like I'm worried over you
You can wake up through the night and stare at the telephone
You can face the floors, waiting for me to come home

When it finally hits you, just what you have lost
Will you be strong enough to take it?
You always told me I was nothing but a habit, huh!
Now I wanna see you break it
'Cause now you're by yourself
You'll see just how I felt, oh

How does it feel
To know you're all alone?
How does it feel
To know your good thing's gone?

[interlude]

Ohhhh, ohhhh

How does it feel
To know you're all alone, yeah
How does it feel
To know your good thing's gone, baby
How does it feel to know you're all alone
