March of Life
(Andrews/ Harrison)

The sun goes up and the sun goes down
Everywhere you look around
This is your life now
It's your life now

Plant the seed, watch it grow
What you need you already know
Look at the field you've grown
Field you've grown

We all have reasons that we try to explain
Why our days are always the same
Don't miss your chance to make it right
Before today slips into the night
We've lost enough by now
Enough by now

Every day that never stays
Sweet hellos they fade away
But you got it right somehow
What did you learn now?
The sun comes up, you're still around
Someone asks what ya doin in this town
Where are they now
They're not around

We all have reasons that we try to explain
Why our days are always the same
Don't miss your chance to make it right
Before today slips into the night
We've lost enough by now
Enough by now

This is your life
This is your town
Doesn't it feel easy right now
Easy right now, it's easy right now

We all have reasons that we try to explain

Why our days are always the same
Don't miss your chance to make it right
Before today slips into the night
We've lost enough by now
Enough by now

We took our chances
We've placed our bets
Paved our road with golden regrets
We made it somehow
We're living now
