When they ask if I forgot about you I'll reply with an obscure answer. When I'm still singing songs about you they'll know the truth. I'm not becoming stronger I've just built a better mask. In conclusion I'd like to tell you...I know you're never coming back. What are you playing at anyways? Just move it along, move it along. This was not my choice, you forced it again. Take a chance just take your chances. You lost me again. So why do they keep saying if you love someone let them go. But I know you're never coming back. So why do they keep saying if you love someone let them go. What are you playing at anyways? Just move it along, move it along. You lost me again
