Last night
I was dreamin'
About us, we were sittin' down by the lake
We were close I had my arms around you
Out of the corner of my eye your hair color changed
You pulled me in
And we started kissin'
But it felt much different
I felt like I was sinnin'
Realized it wasn't you
But the scariest part was deep down in my heart,
I didn't want to wake up

My heart's in a battle
I'm not sure I can win
I'm losing control of my love

I should've been a stronger man
Should've been your soldier
But I chose to wave my white flag
And let her takeover now
I should've protected our love
I should've protected our love
I should've protected our love
I should've protected our love

It happened
About a month ago
I was at a coffee shop saw this cutie there
She was reading a magazine
Out of the corner of my eye saw her look at me
We started talking
So innocently
She asked if I was single then I felt a little guilty
Right then you called
But I hit ignore
Never did that before
I didn't wanna pick up

My heart's in a battle
I'm not sure I can win
I'm losing control of my love

I should've been a stronger man
Should've been your soldier
But I chose to wave my white flag
And let her takeover now
I should've protected our love
I should've protected our love
I should've protected our love
I should've protected our love

I know I never had an interest in someone else
I only think of you
Cause you're the girl that gave me something I never felt
I tried to stay true
And I'm fightin' to keep you first in my mind
I don't wanna lose you
Said, I don't wanna lose you.

I should've been a stronger man
Should've been your soldier
But I chose to wave my white flag
And let her takeover now
I should've protected our love
I should've protected our love
I should've protected our love
I should've protected our love
