Hello again

Your words they make me smile

As I drift away

In my little room upstairs

Oh I spend my nights

Imagining your face your touch

Then I realize

How I don't even know your name

If we could share our time

Would I disappoint your fantasies

I believe that you could be the one I'm needing

'Cause I'm

Only lonely on the inside

Didn't mean to take away your dreams

Only lonely on the inside

When you close your eyes to your deepest thoughts

I could start to give apologies

For all the stupid things that I will say and I will do

If we should ever cross the same place at the same time

Would your world skip a beat 'cause it was me

If we could share our life

Would I disappoint your memories

I believe that I could be the one you're needing

And I'm

CHORUS

If I could give back your hopes your joys your treasures

Don't you think that I would change my world

But there's so many things trying to pull us together

Even though we're far apart I can still watch you walk away

Only lonely on the inside

Didn't mean to take away your dreams

Only lonely on the inside

When you close your eyes do you see me

(In your deepest thoughts do you see me)

(When you close your eyes, in your deepest thoughts do you see me)
