

Hootie & The Blowfish "Space"

Visit "Space" on MotoLyrics.com

I see it inside your eyes
Feel it in your soul
A part of you is moving on
The other half is gone

I don't know what you want from me
No, you lock it all inside
I try to give you everything
But there's nothing else that I can hide

We've been trying so long
You've been pushing too hard
You should say what's wrong and echo what's right
You need a little space and I need mine

When you and I are all alone
It feels so damn crowded
The house we share is not a home
When you're inside it

So, now, I go and grab my things, girl
I must be moving on
I couldn't stand to face you
So I, I guess that's why I wrote this song

You've been trying so long
We've been pushing too hard
You should say what's wrong and echo what's right
You need a little space and I need mine

Oh, oh, oh, we've been trying so long
You've been pushing too hard
You should say what's wrong and echo what's right
You need a little space and I need mine
You need a little space and I need mine

Visit Hootie & The Blowfish page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.