Underneath the pile of ten miles down the violence
This is not the world we asked for Ruined by money and empty of wonder

So call the police, call the national guard
Call an ambulance, the firemen if it gets too hard
Cos no one will do more for you
Than you always knew you could Cos no one gives a fuck about you even though they should

Underneath the wires ten miles down the fires
This is exactly the world we deserve
Ruled by money and ignored by wonder

So call the police, call the national guard
Call an ambulance, the firemen if it gets too hard
Cos no one will do more for you
Than you always knew you could
Cos no one gives a fuck about you even though they should

So call the police, call the national guard
Call an ambulance, the firemen if it gets too hard
Cos no one will do more for you
Than you always knew you could
Cos no one gives a fuck about you even though they should

So call the police, call the national guard
Call an ambulance, the firemen if it gets too hard
Cos no one will do more for you
Than you always knew you could
Cos no one gives a fuck about you even though they should
