

Hopes Die Last

"Scared By The Mirror"

It ain't that easy
When you wake up
Looking at the mirror you realize
You've lost that brightness in your eyes

But you feel
The same as yesterday
When your arms were too short
To embrace your life alone

It's a bad day
Cause you're still waiting
For the call you're used to
Expecting them to tell you
What's right and what's wrong

But this time it won't come
This time you're alone
And the world outside
Will never shine for you

I'm here
Waiting for you to come
Standing still to believe in something more
I'm here
Waiting for you to come
Standing still to believe

I'll never be in a deathbed
Crying of what
Could be done or not
All I need is free my mind
From the ghost I have inside

Such a strange day
When you understand the meaning
Of the words they said:
"Life is hard, you will see it"

But after all
You need to feed yourself with dreams

Otherwise you will die
Without even knowing why

I'm here
Waiting for you to come
Standing still to believe in something more
I'm here
Waiting for you to come

What makes you feel alone
Like there's nothing left to show
(Can't stop growing, can't stop growing old)
What makes you feel your time is near
(Can't stop growing old)

I'm still the same sick boy you knew
My heart has got not place for you
Can't stop growing old
I'm here
