do you feel burned by those words now well what did you expect? the progress of this world your logic circumspect yet what you read goes up in flames
i see you yearn for better times can't empathize you can't see see it through their eyes you can't empathize see it through their eyes you can't this type twist those words now through the knowledge that you learn it's never clear that prior views color all things you do you speak it sounds familiar now well it's no wonder how they never burn simplistic terms you understand it keeps your footing firm you're grounded in cynicism never wears thin see it through their eyes you can't empathize see it through their eyes
you can't
