Still a child, you left your home
To see the world and reach for your dreams
But your innocence soon came undone
'Cause you lost your way and the price you paid
Left you forever scarred and torn

When the night falls on the city
And the lights start shining
The same feeling always takes hold of you
All these memories of your past life
Suddenly come back to your mind
Stirring up the deep hurt you carry inside

You've been in hell and you came through
Fought your way out for a new beginning
But ghosts from yesterday remain with you
And the wasted years, the taste of tears
Seem like they'll never fade away

When the night falls on the city
And the lights start shining
The same feeling always takes hold of you
All these memories of your past life
Suddenly come back to your mind
Stirring up the deep hurt you carry inside

There's so much you've been through
For such a long time
And the brave face you put on can't conceal
That your wounds will never heal

When the night falls on the city
And the lights start shining
The same feeling always takes hold of you
All these memories of your past life
Suddenly come back to your mind
And it cuts you like a knife
When the night falls on the city
And the lights start shining
The same feeling always takes hold of you
Painful memories of your past life

Constantly come back to your mind
Stirring up the deep hurt you carry inside
