[Karyn:]

I guess I can waste all my life as I pretend
To be your guiding beacon, your best friend
I've never been big on foolish lies and fairytales
But it's hard to be that way when your love life fails
Do you understand the words coming from my mouth?
It's best if you get in line, or you better get out

[Chorus - Both:]

I remember when I was hurt and bleeding
On your front porch doorstep pleading
Baby I'm begging of you, don't leave me
I remember those memories of us
But you had to go and mess them up
I was just too much for you to handle
Here's your life, now blow out your birthday candles

[Katrina:]

As the anniversary of our demise draws near
It's amazing how we've both survived another year
I never thought I would live without your touch
We were thrust into overdrive when you grabbed the clutch
Let's drink to celebrate how we've both changed
When we're wasted we can paint a picture of colors rearranged

[Chorus - Both:]

I remember when I was so confused
Ended up the girl who was played and used
To be your slave, I have to say I refuse
I remember those memories of you
You promised me that we'd pull through
I was just too much for you to handle
Here's your life, now blow out your birthday candles

[Katrina:]

As you make your wish, remember me
But baby I'm never coming back

[Karyn:]

I've left you so far as I can see
I won't make up for what you lack

[Both:]

It's crazy how I used to be the one crying
But now you're slowly sinking away and dying
Rove reversal makes this so much easier for me

[Chorus - Both:]

I remember when I was hurt and bleeding
On your front porch doorstep pleading
Baby I'm begging of you, don't leave me
I remember those memories of us
But you had to go and mess them up
I was just too much for you to handle
Here's your life, now blow out your birthday candles

[Chorus - Both:]

I remember when you told me you loved me
Felt like heaven every time you touched me
Baby all I ask of you is to delete my number
When the rain is gone and there's only thunder
The two of us was more than the world could handle
Have a great life baby, blow out your birthday candles
