I am made of magic and wires
And I am everything at the end of it all
I am moving from the mouths of liars
And I am everything and nothing at all

I am speaking order from within
I am aberration by design
Still right here as I have always been
I am nature, perfect by design

Feeding on the apple and the seed
You have done exactly as you're told
Filling us with everything we need
Turning common metal into gold

And all my arms will stretch across the sky
And you will see the glory of it all
Watching from a million different eyes
And you will see the glory of it all

Speaking in tongues, this has begun, I am the end of it all
We have become zeroes and one, I am the end of it all
This is the place, this is the time I am the end of it all
Speaking in tongues, this has begun, I am the end of it all
Speaking in tongues, this has begun, I am the end of it all
We have become zeroes and one, I am the end of it all
