She was nervous, she was late
She left it up to fate
Stading at a phone
And she knows what she wants
And she came here to take it
How perfect it could be
You and me

And she met him at the door
"I don't want you anymore"
"Remember what you said?"

You and a promise...
You and a promise...
You...

Turned and he didn't wait
He walked right thru the gate
So gald to be alone
And he knows who to call
"I'll always be there for you,
call me anytime"
"I don't mean to offend,
the voice on the other end
is a stranger to me"

You and a promise...
You and a promise...
You...

And they say to themselves
And they say to themselves
How could I ever let this happen

You and a promise...
You and a promise...
You...
