"Love You"

I keep smelling the fragrance of promise

I guess the wind that swept by you is passing by my side right now

Maybe it's a sunshine in my heart that shines on only
you

It even embraces the painful scars

Love you

Bringing you up, I close my eyes tight once again

I love you. if I can fill up both your eyes

I love you. if I show you my laughter

I'd take everything under the starlight and give them to
you

I love you. if I can convey this heart to you

I love you. if you teach that heart

I'll become like it in every way

Love you, love you, love you, forever

I'm walking, following you, hiding behind the moonlight

What do I do if you don't notice

Should I make another request to the clouds to rain again

So I can hold your wet heart

Love you

Bringing you up, I close my eyes tight once again

I love you. if I can fill up both your eyes

I love you. if I show you my laughter

I'd take everything under the starlight and give them to
you

I love you. if I can convey this heart to you

I love you. if you teach that heart

I'll become like it in every way
