Christmas, Twin Falls, Idaho is her oldest memory
She was only two
Cafeteria, Harrison Elementary
It was the first time she felt blue
7UP I touched her thumb and she knew it was me
I saw her without shoes

Beneath a parachute
Unless of course she peeked
Although she couldn't see
My mom's good she got me out of Twin Falls, Idaho

In 1983, two weeks after me
Before I got too old
That's where she still was the summer she turned 17
You know how that goes
Although I've never seen
Last I heard was she had twins or maybe it was three
But that don't bother me
