"Some Thai Fun"

Sleeping in sheets stained in their own blood Innocence splattered on their walls like bugs Parents long forgotten and friends are not an option
In this real life hell on Earth that they live each day

A blind eye looks the other way, the industry won't relent
Girls sold into slavery, an executive's business expense
This can't... be allowed to persist

Conferences attended by drones
They left their families behind in their homes And now while in paradise they've got a lust in their eyes
A desire to acquire and retire back home Dozens of diseases run through their veins Bruises and scabs just add to their pain But contusions and infections don't command our attention
As long as they can fuck they'll still be fair game
