Looking with new sight to see it all. a void with the cruellest intentions. why aren't we taking what is ours? hours of time and devotion. time is of the essence. let us hold it close. it's time to go back to places where we found ourselves, alive and full, knowing it was in us all along. it was in me. it was in us all along. I can't scream enough to hold your attention. betrayed. how many more will fall to the false image that you portray. open your heart. because at the end of the day, Your ardent love is will keep us safe from falling away
