Hurry! Let's Go
"Happily Ever After"

Visit "Happily Ever After" on MotoLyrics.com

There used to be this girl, who couldnÂ't find her way,
She was lost in time, thatÂ's what they all say,
They always called her names, and she was so afraid,
Until they crossed the line and she ran away,
She went to the city and found herself a job,
She worked all day long and she saved it all,
So she could buy a bed and then get some sleep,
But without any cash, she could hardly eat,

She could hardly eat, she could hardly eat,
She could hardly eat, she could hardly eat,

Then she prayed to herself that she could go back in time,
She felt so horrible ever since she left her life,

She was down on her luck until she met a special guy,
One with money and a place to sleep, one who never lied,
He was kind and he was young, He was widowed with a son,
He had trouble of his own, good thing he didnÂ't own a gun,
Then he met this poor old girl, she put light, in his world,
Find More lyrics at
It was dark and it was sad, the man was a single dad,
He raised his kid, by himself, in his home,
He was all alone, and he never used his telephone,

Never used his telephone, never used his telephone,

The last call, that he got, was from, the hospital,
His wife had been shot her condition was critical,

Now the girl is in love, and she thinks she has enough,
She now loves her life, now thereÂ's no more stress and strife,
The only thing on her mind, is this, special guy,
He treats her right, and she wants to be his wife,
But he isnÂ't ready yet for such a big step,
He still has things on his mind that causes his regret,

But heÂ's in love with the girl; he wants to move on,
So now both of them have finally found their true love,

Found their true love, found their love,
Found thier true love, found their love