Walking down a sunny street to the library
Checking out the latest books about outer space Going to the fruit stand to buy a dozen oranges
She and the books and the oranges go back to her place

She tells the same old story to everyone that she knows She's just sitting in her room reading books about UFOs

Sometimes I see her sitting on the rooftop Perched in a lawnchair, staring into the sky
I know somewhere in some faraway galaxy That some gray men with telescopes are gazing right into her eyes

She's telling the same old story to everyone that she knows
She's just sitting in her room reading books about UFOs, one time
She's telling the same old story to everyone that she
knows
She's just sitting in her room reading books about UFOs

Her life revolves around all of the planets And she is constantly aware of all the changes that occur
I'm going to turn into a lens and focus all my attention
On finding a new planet and naming it right after her

She's telling that same old story to everyone that she
knows
She's just sitting in her room reading books about UFOs She's telling that same old story to everyone that she
knows
She's just sitting in her room reading books about UFOs
