Why all this searching?
The answer's always been near
It is our destiny

Away from a screeching people
Waiting to destroy ourselves
They can't interfere with history

Nuclear creation for eternity
Looking for others
That can't be seen

All I wish they would land here
But it's too late now
Time is dying, I told you
We've fallen to our own decay

In the other dimension
Time will no longer exist
No one never grow old

Something mankind will never resist
Try destroying it, I told you

All I wish they would land here
But it's too late now
Time is dying, I told you
We've fallen to our own decay

All I wish they would land here
But it's too late now
Time is dying, I told you
We've fallen to our own decay
