Invoked in stone
Of epic proportion
Were his temple pillars
Magnificent and colossal
Humbling to all who entered
It's sacred halls
Yet now has fallen to decay
An unimaginable ruin
It's past grandeur obscured
By cruelties of times past
The priests of this sacred temple
Died and fallen to dust and ash
The undying whispers of despair
Echoes strewn amongst the vast sands

Incantations in stone
Broken in time
Death brings desolation
No creation without destruction
No destruction without creation
The end of days
Brings eternal glory to the gods
Then put out
Like the red torches flame
From the water and skies
The roof of the house of Amun is fallen
Even Immortal Gods Must Die
