So now think of fear,
As a person who wants to know everyone,
And what they love.

And He comes at night,
While your laying there,
He just knows, oh he knows,
He gets in your head.

(Chorus)
Now walk through the door,
The same one you came in,
So we can, go back to how things used to be,
And just walk through the door,
The same one you came in,
So we can go back to how things used to be...

He holds the key to your smile,
And he wont let you get close to half of what you want,
But now I think of it,
We've known him our whole life,
And still dont know who or what he wants.

Now walk through the door,
The same one you came in,
So we can go back to how things used to be.

So now walk through the door,
The same one you came in,
So we can go back to how it used to be.

And I'll wait right here,
With my arms by my side,
Till I can have back,
What I loved before.

Now walk through the door,
The same one you came in,
So we can go back to how things used to be.

And I'll wait right here,

With my arms by my side,
Till I can have back,
What I loved before.
