Here we are again
Like we've always been
Since time uncertain
Who's supposed to start?
Where do we begin?
When we've got so far to go
And we know

Tomorrow everything will change
Today will never seem the same
So I will try to find a way
To say everything I need to say
And if I should die before I wake
Remember everything we said today

Everybody says
Everything must go
Well I don't think so
Something still remains
In everyone we know
Since far away and long ago
And it shows

Tomorrow everything will change
Today will never seem the same
So I will try to find a way
To say everything I need to say
And if I should die before I wake
Remember everything we said today

Tomorrow everything will change
Today will never seem the same
So I will try to find a way
To say everything I need to say
And if I should die before I wake
Remember everything we said today
