Everyone said she was out of my league
She would never fall for a guy like me
Her daddy had money, her mama had class
Said I'd need a foriegn car, and a pocket full of cash
But, I won her heart with 20 bucks
A 9 o'clock show and an ugly truck

There were no violins
No candle light, like there should've been
No red wine, to go to her head
So it must've been something I said
It must've been something I said

I can't explain what happened that night
There's nothing romantic 'bout burgers and fries
But we wound up sittin' on my tailgate
Singing Alabama songs, skippin' rocks on the lake
I carved her name in a Cottonwood tree
Next thing I knew, she was kissing me
Why she did is still a mystery

Repeat Chorus

We talked about the moon
Talked about milkshakes
Earthquakes and old cartoons
I told her my dreams
She talked about the weather
I said I thought that love should last forever

Repeat Chorus

It must've been something I said
It had to be something I said
