I see the same face but so much else has changed
I remember what you once meant to me
You compromised, astray
Now I'm left with nothing but regret, regret, regret

You died

So look at yourself
Are you better off now or then
With your wealth and fame?
All your followers believe your words
Words you can't explain

To do, to say those things
That meant so much to me
You turned away and now you're gone
There's nothing to believe
And now I can't believe
I ever, ever believed in you

To do, to say those things
That meant so much to me
You turned away and now you're gone
There's nothing to believe

Kill, let them die
So I let them die

Kill their past
Kill their past
Kill their past
Kill their past
