Her mother said that she couldn't love
The physical way a woman should
Then where else could she go?
Where the sisters and the fathers can't save her soul

Send them in, see them on
She can't find a lover, she'll fashion one
Imaginary men
Like the burned out poets in the hinterland

The phoenix says, the devil says
The serpent says, the siren says
Why use the word when the word means to believe
Why use the word when the word means to believe

The hourglass sees what shelf life does
She asked, exactly tell me what is love
But grieving life alone
Just the words from prophets and religious shows

Imagine hurt, imagine tears
She opened up until she disappeared
Vanished, hand in hand
With all the long lost children locked in Neverland

The phoenix says, the devil says
The serpent says, the siren says
Why use the word when the word means to believe
Why use the word when the word means to believe

The phoenix says, the devil says
The serpent says, the siren says

Oh, the phoenix says
(Burn for me)
The devil says
(Lie for me)
The serpent says
(Beg for me)
The siren says
(Die for me)

Oh, the phoenix says
(Burn for me)
The devil says
(Lie for me)
The serpent says
(Beg for me)
The siren says
(Die for me)
