If you're picking up a pen, imagining a sword
If you think I'd never flown to the heights at which you soared
Picking up a pen, it's like picking up a spade
To plant or sow a seed, or digging your own grave
I'm made from stardust
Like a planetary sun
Same DNA as stardust
Like an elephants trunk
Is a snorkel full of water
Picking up a pen, imagining a sword
If you think I'd never flown to the heights to which you
soared
Picking up a pen, it's like picking up a spade
It's a planet so it seems, or digging your own grave
I'm made from stardust
Like a planetary sun
Same DNA as stardust
Like an elephants trunk
Is a snorkel full of water
Is a snorkel full of water
Who'll feed the young 'cause they're starving
In this beautiful world that you marvel in Who'd feed the young 'cause they're hungry
In this beautiful world in that you live in for free
Same DNA as stardust, carbon-dated to last Same DNA as stardust, from a time that has passed
I'm made from stardust
Same DNA as stardust
