

Ian Dury And The Blockheads "Back To Blighty"

Visit "Back To Blighty" on MotoLyrics.com

when faced with a hinderance the brave mountainier turns and walks back into the wind but my hesitation
in strange hemisphere makes me quit before I begin

intrepid explorer
his reason extremes
persues the unknow we perfect alone behaves like a trooper
who brags and blasphemes
tell the truth, I wanna go home

back to blighty
back to blighty
back to blighty
back to blighty

the poor navigator
the siren that calls
he's not a warning of coming distressed although you're a chamer the prospect appals
going back to my former address

back to blighty
back to blighty
back to blighty
back to blighty

there is a green hill far away...

Visit Ian Dury And The Blockheads page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.