

Ian Parry

"Something I Said"

Visit "Something I Said" on MotoLyrics.com

Was it something I said
that left me so lonely?
Was it something I did
that caused you to lose me?
Was it something I said
that left me so empty that I can't see?

Was it something I did
that brought this upon me?
'Cause this was something I feared would push up against me.
There must be something out there,
'cause my vision is so blurry that I can't see.

I needed someone to help me up.
I needed someone to let me know.
I needed someone to help me see.
There's someone standing over me.

And was it something I said that brought you to me?
There must be something I did
to fill me completely.
There must be something I found,
'cause now I see so clearly. I come clean.

For all those years that I spent crying,
since I lost my point of view.
All my life it has been changing since I got a taste of you.
And all those years that I've been calling,
yes I'm falling to my knees.

Visit Ian Parry page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.