

Ian Tyson

"Big Horns"

Visit "Big Horns" on MotoLyrics.com

Can you hear that thunder
Memories come flooding down like rain,
I'm right back there with you again,
Can you see that lightning
All along the rimrock, it flashes so,
How were we to know how it all would end
How it all would go?

The sun went down, the BigHorns were all ablaze,
I can still see you, the memory still haunts my days,
Shivering, we clung together in the fire's glow,
Young horse thieves runnin', lost in the BigHorns,
So long ago... so long ago.

Can you hear that silence
The rain has stopped.
Clouds're movin' on, soon will come the dawn
And there it ended, staring down the barrel of a gun,
They had rode us down, nowhere left to run,
Nowhere left to run.

The sun came up, the BigHorns were all ablaze,
The last time I saw you, the memory still haunts my days
"Over here! We got the girl!" I heard someone cry,
And my heart died that day, with you,
'Neath the BigHorn sky, 'neath the BigHorn sky.

Visit Ian Tyson page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.