The weight of the long way makes me feel like falling, but something doesn't let me rest somehow

The figure of a beautiful woman by the flickering candlelight
The face of an old man following me following everywhere

Today I'm writing in a book of another lot,
The snowwhite pages are full of my hopes,
I engrave my beautiful mate's name thousand times,
I want our life to be at least as nice!

Baleful feelings come to me,
The masked danger haunts me laughing

Fear flashes through the sparkling lights of the town
An old face brings me calming down

Today I'm writing in a book of another lot,
The snowwhite pages are full of my hopes,
I engrave my mates' name thousand times
I want our life to be at least as nice!
