Project your problems onto someone else
Think they can solve'em in your place
Know just what you're thinking
You want someone to blame
I know just what you're thinking
It's always been the same

And it's so easy to build these walls around you
Make it safe don't let anyone come through

And if you think there's nothing you can do
Boy I'm glad I'm not in your shoes

How can I tell you it's the wrong target
Can't you try to figure out the feeling that we get
