Calling places, collecting careless Sentences I write them down so I ignore them
You should too, should ignore every word

Calling what you can surrender
Is the only way to really learn that the alphabet
Made up the words you could never resist to quote

If all this wisdom is true
Then I doubt it could really have come from you

'Cause then I am what I am not, I am what I am not
But it must something more than if I am just a thought I'll know

Faster than the destination of knowing where you really are
It's where you've always been or is it where you began?
And happiness did it happen sooner than the doubt
It costs to learn from the mistakes that I taught you

If all this wisdom is true
'Cause then I doubt it could really have come from you

'Cause then I am what I am not, I am what I am not So there must be something more than I am what I am not
If there's nothing more than I am what I am not, I am what I am not
There must be something more than if I am what I am
not

Then I am what I am not, I am what I am not There must be something more than I am what I am
not,
I know there's nothing more than I am what I am not, I am what I am not
I know there's nothing more than if I am what I am not
