I want to scribble your ideas
Each one of them is more unclear
It seems so unclear
I want to scribble your ideas
Each one of them is more unclear
It seems so unclear

But you know you don't have to start
And you know you won't start with a heart that works

I never go out, I'd dress for the cold
Stop and see if it goes away
I never go out, I'd dress for the cold

I want to scribble your ideas
Each one of them is more unclear
It seems so unclear
I want to scribble your ideas
Each one of them is more unclear
It seems so unclear

But you know you don't have to start
And you know there's no need for a heart that works

I never go out, I'd dress for the cold
Stop and see if it goes away

Stop and see if it goes away
