A slight escape from behind yellow tape
I am, dodging bullets aimed for a break
(And for your sake)
I feel I should mention that, this isn't the time or the place
For your face in my eyes
Look quick, don't fall for that trick
My stomach feels like I swallowed a brick
How did you find the key to unlock this door.

A slight escape from behind yellow tape
I am, dodging bullets aimed for a break
(And for your sake)
I feel I should mention that, this isn't the time or the
place
For your face in my eyes
Look quick, don't fall for that trick
My stomach feels like I'm gonna be sick.
How did you find the key to unlock this door.

And now the phone is ringing
My mind starts spinning
And I hear you singing
Those songs that remind me of
All that we are, you'll always have my heart

You've staged an infiltration
Of mind, body and soul.
Now I'm just trying to get back
Some sort of control.
You've staged an infiltration
Of mind, body and soul.
Now I'm just trying to get back
Some sort of control.

And I regress into feelings of love that only you-
Only you can bring out of me, but this Sabotage is killing me.

A red alert that is signal for hurt
I am, left behind accused of a flirt
And for a time,

I wish that what I said would just sound alright.
Now it's time for a fight
Count down, the numbers run out
On the bridge's pillars, fueling my doubt
How did I miss the signs that brought this on?

And now the bridge is shaking
Everything is breaking
And my heart is aching
For the loss of
All that we are, you'll always have my heart

You've staged an infiltration
Of mind, body and soul.
Now I'm just trying to get back
Some sort of control.
You've staged an infiltration
Of mind, body and soul.
Now I'm just trying to get back
Some sort of control.
