"Blue Snow Red Rain"

I know that things can never be the same
No man can stop, deprived again
For all the good that screams inside
Can I control, can I survive

And the sky will fall, blue snow red rain
No heaven or hell will be the same
And the sky will fall, blue snow red rain
And it's colder now

I sense there's things that we just can't explain
The hand of god, falls down again
Beyond this instant everlasting maze
May hold the truth, there's so much to save

And the sky will, fall blue snow red rain
No heaven or hell will be the same

And the sky will fall, blue snow red rain
And it's colder now

The glaring eye that leads the blind
To the path they never find

And the sky will fall, blue snow red rain
No heaven or hell will be the same
And the sky will fall, blue snow red rain
And it's colder now
