We fall into the ocean
We're breathin' under water
Don't know where we're going
But don't you think we oughta
Find land, find land, dry land

I'm following behind you
Moving in slow motion
Searching for a rescue
Something to put hope in
Find land, find land, dry land

My heart is tired, it can't go on
Fighting waves that are too strong
Been tossed around and beaten by the sea
Of you and me, we've both jumped ship
We're adrift

How do we drain an ocean
Is there a secret at the bottom
A door that we can open
A nozzle or a faucet
To let out, to let out
To get out

Every night I watch the sunset
Does it sink as fast as I do
How does it hold it's last breath
Through the loneliness of solitude
Through the dark, in the dark, when it's dark

My heart is tired, it can't go on
Fighting waves that are too strong
Been tossed around and beaten by the sea
Of you and me, we've both jumped ship
We're adrift

The tides, oh they lift us up
And then they put us down again
It's never ending
No it is not your fault, we're lost

My heart is tired, it can't go on
Fighting waves that are too strong
Been tossed around and beaten by the sea
Of you and me, we've both jumped ship
We're adrift
