Rub that enemy from your early eyes shake and shout off that suicide suit you're headed for big things, boy you're going to a place up in the sky a big ol' bus will take you there now come on don't be shy they're waiting there for ya
you better go now

sing boy for goodness sake one more before you break and cry, you cry praise love, your songs are good spread love just like you should and die, and die see that sea of smiles dripping off of you kneel to your image drinking mountain dew we want to hear your famous tune of imaginary gods where all your dreams are in full boom in someone else's yard

we're waiting here for ya come let it go now
