I feed the fire in the night and wish the memories
away;

As with tears I watch the flames of departure.

I still think of you and it makes it even harder;

I can't remember but the good times we had..

It was the love that become hate and all the wrong
words were said;

I never wanted this to be, but still it is.

Seems like these nights are getting each time longer;

Longer they are when I pass them all alone..

I walk alone the cold streets.

Love is gone, cold streets.

Love is playing it cruel game upon my broken heart;

Loneliness is my only game on these cold streets..

The freezing wind from the sea blows it cold over me;

The sea lies frozen in ice as do my soul.

Seems like these nights are getting each time colder;

Colder they are when I pass them all alone..

I walk alone the cold streets.

Love is gone, cold streets.

Love is playing it cruel game upon my broken heart;

Love is no game on these cold streets..

I walk alone the cold streets.

Love is gone, cold streets.

Love is playing it cruel game upon my broken heart;

Love from above is what I need on these cold streets..
