I see you standing in your garden full of stone wrapped around your heart so you will never be alone can't you see I want to give you all you need don't you know by now there's no future in the past when life goes by so fast-

just hold the line (hold the line)
life's a journey til the end of time (hold the line)
and soon the sun will rise your sanctuary is hanging from a chain wrapped around your neck

, but it won't take away the pain seems to me you don't know what to believe you should know by now when the sands of wasted time leave you high and dry-

just hold the line (hold the line)
life's a journey til the end of time (hold the line)
and soon the sun will rise
the end of time (hold the line)
soon the sun will shine just hold the line (hold the line) life's a journey til
the end of time (hold the line)
soon the sun will shine just hold the line (hold the line) you've got to hold on hold on, hold the line
