"Where You Once Lived"

I rode by where you once lived
And it started to rain
Was that a sign
Of the tears I cried?
When you went away
I was all alone
Left in these woods
On my own

I rode by your old house
It was burnt to the ground
Was that a sign
Of the flames we raised?
When you went away
You didn't say a word
Packed up your toys
That was the last I heard

I rode by where you once lived
And it started to rain
Was that a sign of a wasted youth?
When you went away
It was so hard to be
You grew up wasted inside of me
Inside of me
Inside of me
Inside of me
