[Incomprehensible]

I often dream of huge numb buildings
Jet-black sinister architecture
Being installed when nobody sees
Their appearance so sudden
That few would take notice

And when I wake up
I imagine being crushed by one
Imagine it's weight, its silence
And the absence of excuses for a havoced life
And the priviledge of a 22-kilometers tombstone

Defying its own room
Un-earthly egg of decreation

There would be colonies
Mushroom-scattered forever out of content
Rising spores from a dying world
To pollute and chase away what's left

[Incomprehensible]

Sun-white pulverised desert stone
And serpentine lizard mouths
Pales away the pyramids
Rewriting 4500 years of history

Raping the Statue of Liberty
Outplays the Acropolis
Inverting the Fords, invades the skyline to Dream its own existence in one single final word

A body of black
That carried no reflection
Defying its own room
Un-earthly egg of decreation

A body of black
That carried no reflection
Defying its own room

Un-earthly egg of decreation

Can we identify them
As the flint buried in our reptile skulls
Or the time-bomb
Coded in our D.N.A

A body of black
That carried no reflection
Defying its own room
