i'll quench my thirst with the poison you gave me maybe it will stop the deadly sound of your sweet voice in my head should i let myself die, or turn around to see your beautiful face i've been drowning in my own breath i have to break my legs to keep from seeing you losing you was a mistake i'd make again if you had just given me one chance to make up what you made me lose maybe i wouldn't be lying at your feet with this gaping hole in my chest yes - everything is fine.

you carved that hole so big and now you sit and stare as i bleed to death
