

In Remembrance "Satisfaction Of Knowing"

I'm all but satisfied on the outcome of passed events.
So much time was wasted standing by your side, when you were never worth it. I'd give this all away if i could just forget. The time spent believing in the lies you told me. The words you never meant and probably never will. The lies you told me, words you never meant. The words you told me and never meant. So save your breath for someone else. Cause i've been so low that I don't even care about the things you say. Your words mean nothing to me. I gave you space, I gave you time.
You fed me lies, you said goodbye. My luck will someday change. The sky will open up to a new day. To a time without you. There's no memories of the lies you told me
