Rain outside the window pane
Reminds me of the life I used to lead
No one to be
Every day the others come
And tell me all the things I should believe
And what to see
This is no life to live
Come and take my hand and we will leave
And wait for the wind, At sea
The future's calling me
Leading us away to soon be free
To live and breathe
Trust me now and don't look back
I know that you are hurt and long to sleep
And feel relief
From this life
Come and take my hand and we will leave
And wait for the wind, At sea
Come and take my pain away
I've always tried to live as they would have me
But still they leave

Here and now, I've found myself
And I have never felt so well believed
When you hear me
I would give all that I have
And never think of what they take from me
When no one sees
With you I will walk away
We'll never need the things that they would bring
And we will wait, At sea
Throw away your restless thoughts
Realize the truth within your being
And do not flee
You and I are of one heart
Cast aside your doubt and you will see
This is my plea
Open yourself to the sound
Follow towards the names, the waves, be free
And wait for the wind, At sea
