I'll remember every word or hazy eyed remark Every night's another story to wake up and tell in the morning
Now I'm writing songs on the back of old lines and melodies
I hope this makes a difference when I turn to you and say

This one's for all of you that gave us the heart to follow through
Everyone of you has what it takes to win this fight
This is for worse or better we will rise up together
To let them know we're ready to go

I can't believe that's what you said Did she really leave with him
We didn't make it to our beds
One of these days we're bound to win It's nothing far too clever or very complicated it's just who we are
We never claimed it would get us very far

through
Everyone of you has what it takes to win this fight
This is for worse or better we will rise up together
To let them know we're ready to go
