It's so hard to be myself When you're around my cool disappears But you tell me that you light the way Say it's fine to put our hearts on the line I guess it's time to put my faith in you And let my world undo

When the sun comes down, will you be around Stay and light the heavens the whole night through When the sun comes down will I hear the sound The whisper of your kisses until the night is through

Never enough time in the day For me to show what I'm feeling for you And when I tried to hide what's in my eyes You look at me and your smile makes them shine And I just want to get right next to you And let my world undo

When the sun comes down will you be around Stay and light the heavens the whole night through When the sun comes down will I hear the sound The whisper of your kisses until the night is through

When the sun comes down will you be around Stay and light the heavens the whole night through When the sun comes down will I hear the sound The whisper of your kisses until the night is through

When the sun comes down will you be around Stay and light the heavens until the night is though When the sun comes down will I hear the sound The whisper of your kisses until the night is through
