"Summertime" is a George Gershwin song. To be more accurate (admittedly, only slightly more - I don't actually know what I'm talking about - haven't y'all figured that out by now?), the music is by George Gershwin, and the lyrics are by somebody who's last name is "Heyward." That's what I'm told. And I may be TOTALLY wrong here, but I THINK it MAY be from "Porgy and Bess." Anyway, the girls have been doing this song about as long as any other song... Since at least '85 or '86. Occasionally, back in the good ol' days, this used to feature a killer flute solo by Ms. Annie "what a babe" Richardson, or a harmonica solo by Mr. Sandy "all the best harmonica players suck" Garfinkle. And if you were REALLY lucky, you'd get to see a ten-minute jam with BOTH of 'em. And, if you were REALLY REALLY lucky, then Ms. DeDe "this bass is taller than I am" Vogt would be there to provide a stylin' bass line and to point out that despite what the lyric says, cotton is high in the springtime. Ah... I DO miss those days. Anyway, enough nostalgia... Summertime. Summertime, and the living is easy The fish are jumping, the cotton is high Your daddy's rich, your mama's good looking I said, hush, little baby, don't you cry. One of these mornings, you're bound to rise up singing Then you'll spread your wings, and take to the sky But until that morning, nothing's going to harm you, no With your daddy and mama standing by.
