(Bell-Creed)

Man has always searched for something better
A woman can improve all her things, she already has so there.
Man can conquer worlds beyond an ocean
A woman's satisfied where she is,
as long as there is peace.

Since time began boy and girl have joined their forces,
Together they enforce each others strength
The two of us, if combined would be much better
Together we can work to conquer all

Only you, bring out the best in me
Darling can't you see, I know best of you
Only you, bring out the best in me
Darling can't you see, I know best of you (of you)

Man can build a house with just a hammer
A woman has the touch that it needs, to make the house a home someday.
Man has learned to tame the force of nature
A woman plants the seed in the land, and makes the flower grow

Since time began boy and girl have joined their forces,
Together they enforce each others strength
The two of us, if combined would be much better
Together we can work to conquer all

Only you, bring out the best in me
Darling can't you see, I know best of you
Only you, bring out the best in me
Darling can't you see, I know best of you (of you)
